

Video Workshop on Getting Accepted to Graduate Programs

The following links below take you to a seven-part video of a workshop on getting into graduate school held by the Diversity Committee of the Psychology Doctoral Program here at John Jay. Some of the information is specific to Psychology, but much of it is broadly applicable. There is some GREAT information about how best to prepare yourself for, and be accepted into graduate programs. Topics include: why go to graduate school, the different graduate school options in psychology, what makes a good applicant, and a timeline for applying.
