

About the 2011 Student Showcase

We grouped the students together around themes that were common to their individual projects. Each poster had the research by several students. I felt that working on the Student Showcase posters showed students how to collaborate and find common themes from their work. They had to take their individual assignments and create a group work. I helped them along with this in terms of who was in which group, but it was up to them to discover the conceptual linkages between their work. I think the semester-long project worked well.
