English Matters 2.3

From Here is a continuing feature of this newsletter, where we explore just some of the paths students of English are taking at John Jay College. It’s a reasonable question: just what the heck am I going to do with this English degree? Well, you can: go to graduate school, get a job, or do both! How do you get there? Let’s find out.

Department News

Every English Major should be in regular contact with his or her advisor, yet our faculty report that far too many of their advisees are in deep freeze. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you. How can an academic advisor help you? By taking time to understand your reasons for being here, your needs, and your plans. By taking the time to talk to you about your major, your minor, or your double major. By helping you figure out your course schedules or your plans post-grad. By answering questions and helping you navigate your own academic resources. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you.

So this mid-winter break, have you been in contact with your advisor about your course schedules or your plans post-grad? Our students at John Jay are just going on a vacation—without taking the time to plan out a coherent and meaningful course of study in some minor or career-defining major.

Most students at John Jay are just going on a vacation—without taking the time to plan out a coherent and meaningful course of study in some minor or career-defining major.

English Matters

WHY YOUR ENGLISH PROFESSORS ARE LONELY

Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you. How can an academic advisor help you? By taking time to understand your reasons for being here, your needs, and your plans. By taking the time to talk to you about your major, your minor, or your double major. By helping you figure out your course schedules or your plans post-grad. By answering questions and helping you navigate your own academic resources. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you.

So this mid-winter break, have you been in contact with your advisor about your course schedules or your plans post-grad? Our students at John Jay are just going on a vacation—without taking the time to plan out a coherent and meaningful course of study in some minor or career-defining major.

Every English Major should be in regular contact with his or her advisor, yet our faculty report that far too many of their advisees are in deep freeze. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you. How can an academic advisor help you? By taking time to understand your reasons for being here, your needs, and your plans. By taking the time to talk to you about your major, your minor, or your double major. By helping you figure out your course schedules or your plans post-grad. By answering questions and helping you navigate your own academic resources. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you.

So this mid-winter break, have you been in contact with your advisor about your course schedules or your plans post-grad? Our students at John Jay are just going on a vacation—without taking the time to plan out a coherent and meaningful course of study in some minor or career-defining major.

Every English Major should be in regular contact with his or her advisor, yet our faculty report that far too many of their advisees are in deep freeze. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you. How can an academic advisor help you? By taking time to understand your reasons for being here, your needs, and your plans. By taking the time to talk to you about your major, your minor, or your double major. By helping you figure out your course schedules or your plans post-grad. By answering questions and helping you navigate your own academic resources. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you.

So this mid-winter break, have you been in contact with your advisor about your course schedules or your plans post-grad? Our students at John Jay are just going on a vacation—without taking the time to plan out a coherent and meaningful course of study in some minor or career-defining major.

Every English Major should be in regular contact with his or her advisor, yet our faculty report that far too many of their advisees are in deep freeze. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you. How can an academic advisor help you? By taking time to understand your reasons for being here, your needs, and your plans. By taking the time to talk to you about your major, your minor, or your double major. By helping you figure out your course schedules or your plans post-grad. By answering questions and helping you navigate your own academic resources. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you.

So this mid-winter break, have you been in contact with your advisor about your course schedules or your plans post-grad? Our students at John Jay are just going on a vacation—without taking the time to plan out a coherent and meaningful course of study in some minor or career-defining major.

Every English Major should be in regular contact with his or her advisor, yet our faculty report that far too many of their advisees are in deep freeze. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you. How can an academic advisor help you? By taking time to understand your reasons for being here, your needs, and your plans. By taking the time to talk to you about your major, your minor, or your double major. By helping you figure out your course schedules or your plans post-grad. By answering questions and helping you navigate your own academic resources. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you.

So this mid-winter break, have you been in contact with your advisor about your course schedules or your plans post-grad? Our students at John Jay are just going on a vacation—without taking the time to plan out a coherent and meaningful course of study in some minor or career-defining major.

Every English Major should be in regular contact with his or her advisor, yet our faculty report that far too many of their advisees are in deep freeze. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you. How can an academic advisor help you? By taking time to understand your reasons for being here, your needs, and your plans. By taking the time to talk to you about your major, your minor, or your double major. By helping you figure out your course schedules or your plans post-grad. By answering questions and helping you navigate your own academic resources. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you.

So this mid-winter break, have you been in contact with your advisor about your course schedules or your plans post-grad? Our students at John Jay are just going on a vacation—without taking the time to plan out a coherent and meaningful course of study in some minor or career-defining major.

Every English Major should be in regular contact with his or her advisor, yet our faculty report that far too many of their advisees are in deep freeze. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you. How can an academic advisor help you? By taking time to understand your reasons for being here, your needs, and your plans. By taking the time to talk to you about your major, your minor, or your double major. By helping you figure out your course schedules or your plans post-grad. By answering questions and helping you navigate your own academic resources. Every English Major has an advisor, and that advisor is there to help you.

So this mid-winter break, have you been in contact with your advisor about your course schedules or your plans post-grad? Our students at John Jay are just going on a vacation—without taking the time to plan out a coherent and meaningful course of study in some minor or career-defining major.