Ask a couple of your peers what was pleasing them about their English classes, and sometimes. This issue we're talking about what's going on in the classroom. Our continuing feature, "Life in Books," asks the hard questions about what makes us who we are.

Long ago, Prof. Al Coppola, Prof. Craig, and Prof. Alex Wright asked the students what was going on in the classroom. We have some important announcements to make. We also have a special guest, Prof. Tara Pauliny, to give us the floor. As always, we have some important announcements to make.

Spring Course Preview

Prof. Mary Ryan's Topics in Ancient Literature, "The Hero in Ancient Literature," is a course that explores the life and times of the ancient world. The course will focus on the works of Homer and Virgil, and will require a reading of "The Iliad" and "The Odyssey." The course will also explore the life and works of the ancient Greeks, including the works of Homer and Virgil.

Prof. Alexander's Seminar in Literature, "The New Negro Movement," is a course that explores the life and works of the New Negro movement, which emerged in the early 20th century. The course will focus on the works of Langston Hughes and other African American writers, and will require a reading of "The Negro Artist and the Racial Mountain" and "The New Negro." The course will also explore the life and works of the African American artists who emerged in the early 20th century, including the works of Harlem Renaissance writers.

Prof. Allison Pease's English Major Seminar, "The Hero in Ancient Literature," is a course that explores the life and times of the ancient world. The course will focus on the works of Homer and Virgil, and will require a reading of "The Iliad" and "The Odyssey." The course will also explore the life and works of the ancient Greeks, including the works of Homer and Virgil.

The CUNY Pipeline program is designed to provide educational and financial support for undergraduates interested in pursuing the PhD. The program recruits students from CUNY Senior colleges during their Junior year and provides support for those who continue their studies through the PhD. The program also provides financial support for undergraduates interested in pursuing the PhD. The program provides financial support for undergraduates interested in pursuing the PhD.

More information on the CUNY Pipeline program can be found at http://www.jjay.cuny.edu/sections/prelaw/. Students interested in the program should contact Alicia Zayatz, English Department.

English Matters