

call for papers

“empowering the tribe: a symposium on lgbti issues”

john jay college of criminal justice (cuny)
department of foreign languages and literatures

when

thursday and friday, november 3 and 4, 2011

where

john jay college of criminal justice (cuny)

general themes

general themes may include but are not limited to:

relevant aspects of criminal law,
legal discourse and same-gender unions,

lgbti issues in latin america,
immigration and asylum law,
trans-gender issues,

lgbti and law enforcement,
intersex rights,

violence against lgbti individuals.

featured speakers

featured speakers who have already confirmed their attendance include:

daniel balderston, mellon professor of modern languages at the university of pittsburgh;

pauline park, chair of the new york association for gender rights advocacy (nyagra);

victoria neilson, legal director at immigration equality/action fund.

submissions

individual submissions

those interested in presenting at the symposium please submit the following information:

the title of your proposed presentation;

an overview, outlining the presentation in not more than 250 words;

your name and any institutional affiliations;

your contact information, including e-mail address;

a short (1 paragraph) biography, for posting on the conference web site if selected;

a digital photo, for posting on the conference web site if selected;

any special presentation media needs (e.g., overhead projector, PowerPoint).

panels submissions

for panels: please submit a panel description of no more than 250 words and all of the information above for the moderator and panel participants.

deadline for submissions

august 30, 2011.

send submissions to

empoweringthetribe@jjay.cuny.edu

if you have any questions, please contact silvia dapía at sdapia@jjay.cuny.edu

raúl romero, at rromero@jjay.cuny.edu